About $70,000 will go to the purchase of 57 miles of turnpike roads, contracted for. The court also appropriated $1,250 of the money to promote the good roads movement, and the rest will be applied to building 10 or 12 miles of new pikes on four different roads.

The Good Roads train of cars will reach this city Friday and begin work next Saturday on the construction of the mile of road South of town. On Wednesday and Thursday of next week the great good roads convention for the forty Western Counties of Kentucky will be held in Hopkinsville. Sudden Death of the Well-Known Business Man.

Mr. G. Adolph Hille, the well known plumber, died suddenly about eleven o'clock Saturday night at his home on the corner of Main and Eleventh streets. He had been in bad health for a year or more, but the immediate cause of his death was heart failure.

He had recently recovered from a spell of illness and had been able to sit up for several days. On Saturday he suffered a relapse and sank steadily until he died.

Mr. Hille was born in Buffalo, W. Va., in 1855 and was therefore 46 years of age. He came to Hopkinsville about 25 years ago and a few years later was married to Miss Fannie Metcalfe, daughter of the late Rev. V. M. Metcalfe. His wife and five children survive him. He was married early in life to Miss Kittie Rives, but they lived together only a short while. She afterwards married Avant. He leaves a very good estate.

ASYLUM HISTORY.

Interesting Information About
The Past Officers.

Eight Superintendents and Six
Board Presidents in a Period of 47 Years.

The Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum was built in 1854 and was at first controlled by a Board of five Commissioners, who appointed the Superintendent and other officers. The first Board failed to agree and Gov. Powell thereupon appointed the first superintendent, Dr. Sam'l Annam, who served four years.

In 1858 Dr. F. M. Montgomery was appointed superintendent and served until Nov. 30, 1860, when the Asylum was destroyed by fire.
The legislature meeting soon afterwards abolished the office of superintendent and created that of visiting physician, the patients in the meanwhile being quartered in and about Hopkinsville. Dr. Montgomery continued until June 1, 1863,
the Asylum having in the meanwhile been rebuilt.

The third superintendent was Dr.
James Rodman, who was elected by the Board of Commissioners and continued in office from 1863 to 1871
when Gov. Leslie appointed him, the appointive power having been lodged in the Governor. He was successively reappointed by Gov.
McCreary, Gov. Blackburn, Gov.
Knott, and was tendered and declined reappointment, by Gov.
Buchanan in 1889 having served continuously almost 26 years, or a period covering more than half the history of the Asylum.

Dr. Rodman was succeeded by Dr. B. W. Stone, who had been his first assistant physician for nearly 20 years. He was appointed by Gov. Buchanan in February 1889 and reappointed in 1893 by Gov.
Brown, serving until 1898, when the first Republican Governor removed him for political reasons in the midst of his second term and appointed Dr. B. F. Letcher, of Henderson. Dr. Letcher served about one year and was succeeded in 1897
by Dr. T. W. Gardiner, of Madisonville, who filled the position until July 1900, nearly 3½ years.
In 1900 E. B. McCormick was appointed by Gov. Beckham and served for ten months. He was succeeded May 1, 1901, by Dr. W.
Ray, of Springfield, Ky., the present superintendent.

Summed up the eight superintendents
have served as follows:

1854—Dr. Samuel Annam, 4
years.
1858—Dr. F. M. Montgomery, 5
years.
1863—Dr. James Rodman, 26
years.
1889—Dr. B. W. Stone, 7 years.
1896—Dr. B. F. Letcher, 1 year.
1897—Dr. T. W. Gardiner, 3½
years.
1900—Dr. E. B. McCormick 1 year.
1901—Dr. W. W. Ray.

The name of the Asylum was changed about five years ago to the Western Asylum for the Insane.
The Board of Commissioners was increased from 5 to 9 members about 30 years ago. There have been only six Presidents of the Board of Commissioners during the 47 years of the Asylum's history,
viz:

Capt. Jno. P. Campbell.
Col. George Poindexter.
Stephen E. Trice.
B. E. Randolph.
Chas. M. Meacham.
Charles Knight.
Mr. Knight, the present incumbent, was elected in 1893, upon the resignation from the Board of his predecessor.

NO STAMP CHECKS NOW.

New Amendment to the War Tax
Revenue Law is Effective.

The new war tax revenue law,
passed by Congress March 2, last,
amending the revenue law of 1898
went into effect Monday.

Some of the ordinary articles on which the tax will be taken off entirely are chewing gum, cosmetics and perfumery. The one cent tax on telegraph messages, which the people were compelled to pay, and the one cent tax on telephone messages, which the telephone companies paid, will be discontinued.
Promissory notes, bank checks and drafts will also be relieved of the little stamp. The tax will be reduced on cigars and cigarettes, but not on tobacco. Beer will be slightly relieved of the tax also, but not sufficient to affect the size of bottle.

for twenty years and have sold

ach and bowel troubles," says O.
W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga.
"This remedy cures two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers there. The cure is satisfying. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form. No family

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble
and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours;
a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. It is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, pain in the back is also evidence of kidney trouble.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, finds every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scaling pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon evident. It stands the highest of all kidney cures, and is the most distressing cause.
If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery
and a book that tells more about it, both sent

OWENSBORO CONVENTION.

Good Roads Train's Next Stand
After Being Here.

The Press Committee of the Owensboro convention is sending out
this address:

The officials and citizens of Owensboro and Daviess county, having in mind the improvement of the roads and public highways and desiring to forward the movement in behalf of good roads, have arranged with the National Good Roads association for the construction of a mile of model road adjoining Owensboro
by the expert crew now traveling through the South, over the line of the Illinois Central railroad, under the auspices of this association.
That the movement may have the best possible effect in this action,
they have arranged for a Good Roads convention to be held in Owensboro on July 16 and 17, 1901, to which they cordially invite the people of Daviess and adjoining counties, of West Kentucky and Southern Indiana
generally. At this convention addresses will be delivered by prominent speakers familiar with the subject of road construction and a practical demonstration will be given of road building applicable to the needs and ability of the people of this section. Among the speakers expected are President
W. H. Moore, of the National Good Roads association; Hon. Martin Dodge, director of the bureau of road inquiry of the Agricultural Department; Mr. Charles T. Har-ron, road expert of the Agricultural Department, and others.

Speakers of note in the State will also be present and a program will be presented that will be full of interest to progressive people who are interested in the improvement of the roads of the state. Unusual opportunities will be presented for the gaining of ideas about economic methods of road work and the practical demonstration of road building will be of value particularly to road overseers and supervisors. In connection with the convention there will be a comprehensive exhibit of the latest designs in road-making machinery, by all the prominent manufacturers of the country. County officials are especially urged to attend. The citizens of Owensboro are preparing to give a free burgoon on one of the days to their visitors and in every way the occasion will be made pleasant and profitable to those who attend.

The railroads and steamboats
have granted a one fare round trip rate for this occasion from all points
within one hundred miles of Owensboro.

Cure for Cholera Infantum—Newer Known to Fail.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery.
I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure that it would do good if used according to directions. In two days, time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail—

THE SUNDOWN GUN.

Not Always First just at Going Down of the Sun.

"The sundown gun which is fired at all army garrisons and forts is figurative at times, though now and then it actually indicates the time when the sun is supposed to go down," said an army officer in explaining the matter to a New Orleans Times-Democrat writer; "but it is not safe to set your watches or clocks by it. The firing of the sundown gun is intended as an incident in the ceremony of the salute to the flag, which is a military performance strictly and is not to inform the immediate or even distant localities that the sun has gone down, though it does so in a way. Less attention is given to the exact second, according to the watch, in the garrisons and forts about cities than on the frontiers, where it is one of the events of the day; but it is safely say, approximately, the gun is fired near sundown. I happened to be at an arsenal barracks Sunday before last, and with others waited for the salute to the flag. There was quite a party present. One of the ladies was very much worked up because the sun was, according to her judgment, a half-hour high when the sundown gun was fired. The fact of the matter was the sun did not go out of sight for probably 15 minutes after the firing of the gun, but there is, except in a general way, no connection with the two things. The idea of the gun is in honor of the flag, in a military salute, and it is just as much honor whether it is 15 minutes early, or after actual sundown. Another thing in connection with this should be remembered—that the sun never actually disappears when the scheduled time for it to disappear arrives, but is always a minute or two late. There is no necessity for absolute exactness, and in this respect the sundown gun is a different thing from the raising of the time ball at noon each day."

HE HAD THEM ALL.

Wanted to Be Shaved in Pests—In Need of Nothing.

The other day a man walked into a barber's shop and deposited upon a table a number of articles, which he took from a satchel and arranged with artistic care.

"This is pomade," said the visitor.

"I am well supplied," said the barber.

"This is bear's grease."

"I am full up with bear's grease."

"Here is some fine bay rum."

"Don't doubt it; but I make my own bay rum and put on foreign labels. Nobody knows the difference."

"Here is some patent cosmetic for the mustache."

"I know it is for the mustache, also for the whiskers, and all that, but I'm thoroughly stocked and reeking with cosmetics at present."

"Here is an electric brush, a duplex elliptic hair dye, lavender water, and a patent face powder."

"I don't want any of them."

"I know you don't."

"Then why did you ask me to buy them?"

"I did not ask you to buy them. Did I say anything to you about buying them?"

"Come to think of it, you didn't."

"Did not come here to sell anything. I only wish to let you know that I possess all the toilet articles that a gentleman has any business with. Now, don't try to sell me anything, or praise up your wares. I am stocked, stocked, stocked! Now give me an easy cash without asking me to buy anything."—London Tit-Bits.

REPAIRING WATCHES.

Broken Parts More Easily Replaced Than Formerly.

"Repairing watches is an easy task now compared to what it was when I learned the trade," volunteered a watchmaker to a Washington Star reporter. "As far as American-made watches are concerned, there is practically no necessity in making anything any more, for all the parts are sold by the factories and can be replaced instantly without any labor, excepting, of course, that required in taking the watch apart, replacing the injured or broken part and putting it together again. This is an advantage in favor of the American watch, and is what is slowly, but surely, driving the Swiss watch out of our market. The Swiss watch manufacturers will not sell parts by the quantity to the trade. The result is that when new parts are needed to repair a Swiss watch it has to be made outright, and the watchmaker necessarily has to charge considerable for the work. I got a bunch of wheels a few days ago, about 150 in all, in the regular trade way, for 30 cents. Any one of those wheels, if I had to make them by hand, would take at least a day."

GLASS IN CANDY.

English Chemist Discovers Diabolical Practice of a French Confectioner.

The production of modern sweets is undoubtedly a fine art judging from the innumerable varieties made and the countless way in vogue of making them attractive. At one time the most deplorable practice prevailed of employing such poisonous substitutes as chromium, lead, copper, or even mercury and arsenic, as coloring agents in sweets. The use of such objectionable coloring agents became happily obsolete, and, speaking generally, modern confectionery is now pure. True, the coloring agent is often an aniline dye, but so great is the industrial pouring of such dyes that it is probable several pounds of the sweets would contain at most a few grains of the dye, and then the dye may be perfectly harmless.

A somewhat unexpected and most objectionable method of manipulating sweets has just been brought to our notice, says the London Lancet. Sweets are made to glitter by means of splinters of glass, so that the sweet has the appearance of sparkling crystal sugar. We have in our laboratory at the time of writing some specimens of even high-class confectionery, said to be of French make, which all contain a liberal sprinkling of glass splinters. When the sweet is dissolved in warm water the splinters tumble to the bottom of the fluid into a miniature heap of broken glass. The splinters present both sharp points and sharp edges which are eminently calculated to cause an injury to the walls of the digestive canal. It is difficult to imagine a more powerful mechanical irritant than jagged glass which might easily cause laceration, and hemorrhage, not to mention other disturbances such as are set up by foreign bodies less jagged than glass in the alimentary canal.

The sweets to which we have referred were sent to us by a correspondent with a request for analysis, and he relates that these sweets were parakeen of by two little children who shortly afterward suffered from severe abdominal pain, in the course of the region of the appendix. The pain persisted for several days. The effect of sharp glass particles lodging in the appendix could, of course, be easily disastrous. Our analysis enables us to say most positively that these glittering particles are glass. They are quite unchanged in boiling water or in boiling acids and melt into beads at a red heat. On analysis we obtained silica, lime soda, and a little lead, which are the constituents of common glass. From their appearance on the sweets the flakes might easily be taken for gelatin or mica. The glass is probably prepared by crushing glass bottles.

It is probable that the practice is adopted in order to compensate for the absence of any crystalline appearance in glucose which is now so much used as a substitute for cane sugar in confectionery. In such a case the practice is not only monstrous, because it is likely to lead to serious injury to health, but because it is a fraud also. Sandy sugar was laid enough, but to put glass splinters in sweets is diabolical.

THE COLOSSEUM AT ROME.

Made Ridiculous by Addition of Incongruous Modern Paraphernalia.

The Romans have the hideous habit of periodically fighting the Colosseum, during the tourist season, with Bengal lights, and, what is more amazing, still, says the Pall Mall Gazette, usually succeed in making a financial success of it, although no one was ever known to go twice.

There is the additional abomination in these days of a big brass band and a chorus of a hundred voices, in an invocation to the Flavian amphitheater. The effect is tremendous, but somewhat stunning to those who are accustomed to their Colosseum empty and flooded with peaceful moonlight, where pictures from the past rise with the clearness of sunset and no sound is heard but one's own breathing or the song of the nightingale. Contrast with such a scene the red, blue and yellow Bengal lights, the smoke, the confusion, the hundred shrieking throats, and the clang of the brazen instruments! Imagination shrinks, and curses the Roman of to-day with whom such a thing is possible. But is it his fault? As I said before, it is a great financial success, and the Italians certainly do not patronize it. Query—Who does?

Needs an Excuse.

All that the average saving man needs is an excuse; and he will blow his money.—Atchison Globe.

Excuses.

Most excuses are worse than none.—Washington (La.) Democrat.

STANDARD OF MEASUREMENT

Not Identical in All of the States of the Union.

"The establishment of the bureau of standards authorized by the last session of congress means ultimately, though not immediately, the adoption of a standard United States bushel, ton and every other weight and measure," explained a gentleman who has taken great interest in the legislation, to a New Orleans Times-Democrat reporter. "At present some states have what is called a 'short ton' and a 'long ton,' the former 2,000 pounds and the latter 2,240 pounds, though nearly all the states which have legislated on the subject in recent years have adopted a ton of 2,000 pounds as the standard. The United States government has no standard ton, though in all contracts when made there is a provision stating that the ton shall be 2,240 pounds, even in states which have a standard of 2,000 pounds for a ton. There are a lot of instances in which in the same state the various counties have a different weight stated as a bushel. It is to remedy all these conditions and seeming contradictions that a national standard is found to be necessary. Of course the federal government has no power to provide a standard of anything for a state without the consent of the state, but it is understood that as the federal government is now to provide a standard, there will be little or no objection to the adoption of that standard by the various states. It means a work of some years, however, for each state will have to accept the federal standard by an expressed statute. Eventually it will be a good thing for all concerned."

"When the standard weights and measures have been adopted copies of the same will have to be distributed to each of the state capitals, so that the pound, pint and yard will have to be absolutely identical in each and every state and all parties thereof. The fact that the United States has adopted a standard will have a great influence in securing the acceptance of the same in all the states, but it cannot be legalized in the state unless the state legislature legislate the same. Strange to say, however, the British standard is not identical with the United States standard in many parts of the British empire means considerably different from what it means in other parts. The term 'foot' has but little meaning, though as a rule there are 12 inches in every foot. The inch, however, is not always the same. The American inch, by common consent—for there is no law on the subject—is identical with the English inch. Our hundred furlong, a mile, is not American or English feet. The French foot varies from ours also, though it is the same practically. Though the gas companies charge so much for every hundred feet, and the electric light companies so much for every hundred watts used, there is no standard, and as a result, there is no standard in this country; that is, a legalized standard. The gas company foot is an arbitrary thing settled to suit the gas companies, the foot of hardly any two gas companies in this country being absolutely identical. To standardize such things is the central work of the bureau of standards. There is no standard whatever in connection with electrical measurement, every electric company working out its salvation and profit."

Origin of the Visiting Card.

As is the case in many other instances, we owe the invention of visiting cards to the Chinese. So long ago as the period of the T'ang dynasty (618-907) visiting cards were common use in China, and that is also the date of the introduction of the "red silken cords" which figure so conspicuously on the engagement cards of that country. From very ancient times to the present day the Chinese have observed the strictest ceremony with regard to the paying of visits. The cards which they use for this purpose are very large, and usually of a bright red color. When a Chinaman desires to marry, his parents intimate that fact to a professional "match-maker," who thereupon runs through a list of her visiting acquaintances and selects one whom she considers a fitting bride for the young man; and then she calls upon the young woman's parents, armed with the bridegroom's card, on which are inscribed his ancestral name and the eight symbols which denote the day of his birth. If the answer is an acceptance of his suit, the bride card is sent in return; and should the cardholder prove good concerning the union, the participants of the engagement are written on two large cards, tied together with the red cords.

BRIGHT YOUNG MAN

Cut Down on the Threshold of a Useful Career.Stephen E. Trice, Jr., Succumbs to a Spinal Injury Received
Four Years Ago.Stephen E. Trice, Jr., third son of Mr. John B. Trice, died Friday afternoon at his home on South
Main Street.He had been a helpless invalid for three years, but his family still entertained hopes of his ultimate recovery. He had appeared to be improving recently and his death was not expected.Mr. Trice was 24 years of age and when taken ill gave promise of a brilliant business career. He graduated from Richmond College,
Virginia, and later from Eastman
Business College at Poughkeepsie
New York.It was while at this college that he received a fall while exercising in a gymnasium, that eventually caused his death.Returning home he at once formed a partnership with Mr. W. F.
Garrett in the insurance business, but soon found that his spine had been injured in such a way that it incapacitated him for active business.
He went to the best specialists and surgeons, but none of them could stop the progress of the trouble and in a year he was confined to his bed. His sufferings were excruciating at times and then he would appear to get better and hope revived. He remained cheerful and resigned throughout his long illness. On the day he died he became unconscious a few hours before the end came.Few deaths in Hopkinsville have caused more genuine and universal sorrow. Of a bright, sunny disposition, deceased was a favorite with all who knew him. Of splendid physique, possessing a strong and well-poised intellect, equipped by liberal and judicious education for a successful business life, he was disabled on its very threshold and cut down at the very beginning of a career of usefulness.His funeral services were held at the Baptist church, of which he was a consistent member, Sunday morning, and the discourse preached by Dr. C. H. Nash was in that able divine's best vein. It was earnest, eloquent and appropriate. The burial took place at Hopewell Cemetery shortly before noon.

COL. ADKERSON DEAD.

Father of Mrs. Faxon Passes Away in Tennessee.

Col. J. H. Adkerson father of Mrs. W. H. Faxon, of this city, died last Wednesday at his home at Walter Hill, Tenn. He had been in declining health for some time, and death was due to liver trouble.

Col. Adkerson was 70 years old and served in the Confederate army throughout the civil war. He was a gallant officer and a man who enjoyed a wide acquaintance and great popularity.

At the close of the war he returned to his home in Tennessee, where he had since been engaged in farming.

When Col. Adkerson was taken seriously ill a few weeks ago, his daughter, Mrs. Faxon, went to his bedside, but became sick herself and returned home just a day or two before her father's death. On account of her continued illness she was unable to attend the burial, which took place Thursday.

SUPPLEMENT.

Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, JULY 1901.

GREAT GOOD ROADS CONVENTION.

Will Take Place In Hopkinsville, Ky., July 10th and 11th.

In a few days the Great Good Roads convention will assemble in Hopkinsville and the time between now and the 10th inst. will be put in by the management of the convention in further perfecting the many little details that are always put off until the last moment. Interest in the convention and the good roads movement is increasing every hour and Hopkinsville is making arrangements to entertain a very large number of people. All of the committees are working hard and nothing that will make the convention more attractive will be left undone. The committee on entertainment will do all in its power to make the visit of each and every person who attends the convention as pleasant as possible and will fully sustain Hopkinsville's wide reputation for hospitality. This committee intends to make everybody have a good time and that it will succeed, everybody who knows the gentlemen composing it feels assured. Hopkinsville never does anything on a small scale, and when it starts in to have a convention it has one, and a sure enough one, at that.

OUT HUSTLING.

For about ten days or two weeks several wide-awake, hustling citizens of Hopkinsville were on the road explaining to the people over a large territory the object of the Hopkinsville Good Roads convention, what it is hoped and believed can be accomplished for the lasting welfare of the entire people by an exchange of views on the road question and by seeing experts build a sample road and explain every detail of the method of construction. Not only did these gentlemen visit all the counties of Western Kentucky, but they went over into the northern counties of Tennessee aroused a deep interest among the people there and many persons from the "Volunteer State" will attend the convention. While in Nashville they called upon Governor McMillan, who is himself a most enthusiastic good roads man, and enlisted his aid and invited him to attend the convention and deliver an address such as the one he made at the Good Roads convention at Jackson, Tenn., a few weeks ago. It is highly probable that the Governor will accept the invitation and partake of genuine old Kentucky hospitality, though at the time the invitation was extended he could not give a definite answer. In their rounds these gentlemen called upon the county judge of every county in this section and tried to impress upon each of them the importance of attending in person and also of appointing delegates to attend so as to learn the best method of making good roads to the end that they may on their return to their homes at once set to work to improve the public highways of their own counties. Right here it is where it is believed that the great benefit from the convention will come in—the returning delegates having been brought to realize the advantage of good roads and having seen how simple a thing it is to construct them will never rest until they have induced the people in every locality to go to work in earnest and keep up that work until bad roads are a thing of the past. That's why the convention is to be held, that's why the gentlemen having the matter in hand are working so hard to get delegates to attend from every locality.

They believe that every additional delegate will mean additional strength for the good roads movement somewhere, and they are working for the benefit not of any special locality, but for the good of the entire country. They could not possibly have any other object in doing all this hard work, for Hopkinsville and Christian county have no ax to grind, the interest of all the counties is the same—the improvement of the public roads, and all the counties sending delegates can be and will be equally benefited by the convention, and any county failing to send delegates will be making a big mistake. These gentlemen who were on the road in the interest of the convention also pointed out to the county judges and people they visited the wisdom of sending among the delegates the county road overseers so that when they return home they may at once begin to apply the information gained to the road work in their charge so that the people of the various counties would at once begin to derive benefits from the convention and the work and lectures of the experts having charge of the good roads train. The wisdom of this plan can be seen at a glance and it is to be hoped that every county judge and every road overseer in Western Kentucky will attend the convention, for this is really a matter of vital importance to every man, woman and child in the commonwealth, and not only to those living but to generations yet to be born. Such a work is not one of today, but for all time to come, it's a duty we owe to posterity as well as to ourselves. The wise man prepares for the future. The subject of good roads appeals to every man, to every condition of life—even the tramp is a strong advocate of good roads. To every man the subject has an interest. As Secretary Richardson, of the National Good Roads Association says, the road takes the man to his home, to his church, to his success, to all things, in fact. Such being the case, what can possibly be more important to the people than a convention that will beyond doubt work a complete revolution in the present expensive, old foggy methods of constructing and maintaining the public highways. It ought not to take any argument to convince any man of the importance of this matter, for it's really as plain as "the nose on a horse's face," for good roads by reducing the cost of moving the produce from the farm to the market necessarily increases the profit of the original producer by leaving in his pocket money that under a system of worthless roads has to be paid out for transportation and what benefits the farmer, the original producer, benefits everybody who has to use the things produced.

OPENING NIGHT.

The Great Good Roads convention will open in Hopkinsville on July 10. The affair will be inaugurated by a great industrial parade in which each and every line of business in Hopkinsville will be represented by floats, and this parade will enable visitors to form some idea as to the diversified business interests of the city. An effort will be made to eclipse even the industrial parade held during the Elk's Fair and Carnival last fall and which was so highly complimented by every visitor in the city at that time. The parade will be formed in time to move off promptly at 10 o'clock. The line of march will be through the principal streets of the city, and the parade will be one of the most interesting features of the opening day. Every business man in the city will try to make his float as attractive as possible, each will try to make his competitors in business "look like thirty cents" and the result will be a magnificent display that will reflect great credit upon the enterprise of Hopkinsville people. This parade will be well worth seeing.

THE FIRST SESSION.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the 10th the first session of the convention will be called to order at Union Tabernacle by Chairman Forbes, of the executive committee, and a temporary organization effected by the selection of a chairman and secretary. This having been done, Mayor F. W. Dabney, in behalf of the city, will deliver an address of welcome, which will be responded to by one of the visitors, in all probability by Mr. Joseph G. Covington, of Bowling Green, who will be a member of the Warren county delegation. Committees on credentials, on permanent organization, on resolutions and legislation, will be appointed and will retire for the preparation of resolutions and reports. After the retirement of the committees for work Hon. James A. McKenzie, of Oak Grove, will in all probability deliver an address of welcome in behalf of the county, and response will be made by one of the visitors. If the committees prepare their reports in time a permanent organization will be effected at this session, if not, then it will be done at the night session.

THE FIRST NIGHT SESSION.

The first night session will be called to order at the tabernacle about 7:45 or 8 o'clock and if the permanent organization happens not to have taken place in the afternoon that will be the first business on hand. Then the reports of the several committees will be read, discussed and acted upon. One of the most interesting and instructive features of the entire convention will take place at this night session. It will be an address by Mr. M. O. Eldridge, assistant director in the office of Public Road Inquiries, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. His subject will be "Scientific Construction of Roads," and his lecture will be illustrated throughout with stereopticon views that will add much to its effect. Mr. Eldridge will show that the first knowledge of scientific road construction was secured from the Romans, from their work on the historic Appian Way, which was 350 miles in length and he will show exactly how that famous highway was constructed. He will also show how Napoleon Bonaparte, the greatest road builder of modern times, constructed the "Simplon Pass," a celebrated highway 300 miles long and costing fifteen thousand dollars per mile. Famous roads in Germany, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland and England will be described by him. He will show that the best roads to be found in the world today are to be found in England, and he

the convention will be held at the rernacle on the evening of Thurs- July 11th, and will be called to r at about 8 o'clock. This ion will be devoted to short s—five minute talks—from coun- judges in regard to the roads of r counties, the sentiment of the ple in regard to the improvement roads, sort of a general exchange ideas in regard to this very portant matter. This night session end the convention and on the lowing morning the delegates will ve for home, each and every one hless determined to do all in power to have the roads of his nty so improved that they will pare favorably with the best s of the country, for it is not abable that any man can attend onvention and leave without g aroused to action in the itar.

TO LOOK AFTER VISITORS.

The reception committee will look r the visitors as they arrive

Members of the committee will meet all trains and show the delegates and visitors to the places where they are to stop while in the city and carriages will constantly be on hand ready to carry visitors wherever they may desire to go.

PLenty of Refreshments.

There will be four or five places in the city where light refreshments will be served to visitors at nearly all hours of the day. These places will be in charge of a number of ladies who have kindly consented to do all in their power to make the convention a success. They will keep these refreshment rooms open all day and be prepared to serve all who come. There will be a commit- tee of ladies to take charge of and entertain all of the ladies who may happen to accompany the delegates, though it is not probable there will be a very large number of these. All ladies, however, who may choose to come to the convention will be cordially welcomed and everything possible will be done to make their visit to the city pleasant.

THE OUTLOOK.

The outlook for a large and enthusiastic convention is very bright indeed, as most of the county judges in Western Kentucky are interested in the matter. The convention held in Louisville June 25-27 shows that the people of all sections of the state are deeply interested in the road question. That convention was attended by men in all walks of life and each delegate on hand declared that the people he represented were thoroughly aroused and were ready to take such action as might be deemed best. The question of good roads has also stirred up the people of the Pennyrile and beyond doubt the Hopkinsville Good Roads Convention will be one of the biggest things of the kind ever held in Kentucky. Everybody is invited, everybody will be heartily welcomed.

NOT A CENT

Will Anybody Attending the Convention Be Asked To Subscribe.

Some people seem in some way to have gotten into their head the idea that subscription of some kind, for some purpose, would be asked for at the Great Good Roads convention to be held in Hopkinsville July 10-11. We want it distinctly understood that no person attending the convention will be asked to subscribe ONE SINGLE CENT FOR ANY PURPOSE WHATSOEVER. The purpose of this convention is simply and solely to discuss the matter of road improvement and to arouse the public to a full realization of the importance of immediate action, and to show the delegates how a good, modern road should be constructed and to inform them accurately as to the cost of same, to the end that all the public roads in this section may be put in such a condition that they can be used twelve months in the year instead of only eight or nine months as is now the case in many sections.

Nobody in anyway connected with the convention has any ax to grind and everybody taking part in it is actuated solely by a desire to promote the interests of all the people.

Not only will there be no subscription of any sort asked, but on the contrary delegates and visitors to the convention will be entertained at the expense of the people of Hopkinsville and Christian county.

Nobody will be asked for any money, rest assured of that fact. So deeply interested in the matter of good roads are the people of Hopkinsville and Christian county that they cheerfully put up the money to bear the expense of this convention in the hope of being able to serve the entire state by helping to arouse the people on this vital matter. The people of the city and county invite everybody to come and be their guests on July 10th and 11th, assuring them of a most cordial welcome.

Satisfaction is wrapped up in every bundle that goes out of J. T. Wall & Co.'s (Hopkinsville, Ky.) big clothing store. Don't fail to go in there when you attend the Good Road Convention. They are live hustling people and will be glad to see you.

Mr. Geo. Young.

Mr. George W. Young needs no introduction to the public, as he has long been one of Hopkinsville's most substantial business men. His large, commodious establishment is situated on Main street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, and in it can be found large stocks of glass and queensware, crockery, hardware, malleable steel ranges, stoves of every sort, refrigerators, in fact, every utensil of the household and kitchen.

He employs only skilled workmen and repairing on all kinds of tin and iron is scientifically done, and the putting up of gutting and the laying of piping is made a specialty. The finest ranges and cooking and heating stoves of the most famous makes are kept in stock and sold at prices as low as is consistent with a modest and reasonable profit.

Mr. Young has long ago established a most enviable reputation for fair dealings and systematic business methods.

In the matter of putting on tin roofing Mr. Young is at his best, many years of experience in that special branch of his business having made him an artist. Persons contemplating having tin roofing done will find it to their interest to call on Mr. Young and get his figures.

First National Bank.

Although the First National Bank is the youngest of Hopkinsville's four big financial institutions—having been established in 1888—it is one of the leading banks of Western Kentucky, the growth of its business since it was first opened having been little less than marvelous. There is nothing, however, so surprising in this fact to people who know the men that have had charge of its affairs,—in reality it is only what one would have expected.

Shortly after this bank was organized the management of its affairs passed into the hands of the able financiers who now control it, and with that change in management began the successful career that has ever since marked its progress from year to year. Mr. Geo. C. Long, the present wise and conservative president, was then placed in charge of its affairs, and his executive ability has been proven by the record of the bank since he assumed its chief office. His wide experience in business affairs and his extensive acquaintance throughout Christian and surrounding counties have been great factors in extending the First National's business. Mr. Thomas W. Long, the cashier, is a fine business man, an expert financier, and one of the most popular gentlemen in Hopkinsville, both in social and business circles. His long training in commercial life qualifies him eminently for the position of cashier which he has so long held, and his happy faculty for making friends carries much business to the bank.

Again, the bank has been very happy in the selection of a vice-president, that office being held by Mr. Charles F. Jarrett, one of the best business men and most popular gentlemen in Christian county, and his name is a tower of strength to the bank.

The directory of the First National contains the names of some of the most progressive and substantial citizens of the county, and is made up as follows: Geo. C. Long, Chas. F. Jarrett, T. W. Blakey, John P. Frowe, R. W. Downer, A. B. Croft, Lee Ellis, J. W. Downer and G. H. Stowe. With such men as these at the helm only success could be expected.

Then again, the iron-clad national banking laws of the United States make national banks doubly safe as repositories for the money of the people.

The capital of the First National Bank is $50,000, and its surplus and undivided profits amount to $16,000 more.

The officials of this bank have reason to be very proud of what they have achieved.

The time is rapidly approaching when sections of the county in which the people fail to improve their highways will not be able to compete with sections having good roads and hauling their produce at the least possible expense.

Forbes & Bro.

Great enterprises always have small beginnings. The little establishment at the corner of Tenth and Virginia streets started by Forbes & Bro. twenty-four years ago has grown into the biggest plant in this part of the state. As fast as they make money they invest it in improvements and additions to their plant, thus having all their capital invested in visible property which is subject to taxation and which consequently bears its proportion of expense of the city government, as well as that of the state.

Their stock embraces a line that is varied to that extent that a farmer can buy everything he wants at this mammoth establishment except dry goods, drugs and groceries. Besides having the largest retail hardware establishment in the state, and the biggest carriage repository and their immense coal business, they have made a specialty of two departments which have more than anything else contributed to their remarkable commercial growth. These two things are the planing mill, and contracting business, and their Mogul wagon factory. These two branches of their business constitute the largest proportional part of the yearly volume of transactions. They build houses all over this section, within a radius of fifty miles from Hopkinsville. They are prepared to build a house complete from the foundation up and turn it over to the owner. Each department has, as a head, the most skilled mechanic in that line that can be found. The painting, the plastering, the masonry and the carpenter's work, have all been organized perfectly in their respective departments, with Mr. W. A. Long as a general superintendent of them all, except the mill work over which Mr. Lew Atkinson has supervision.

No less worthy of mention is their Mogul wagon manufacturing establishment. Messrs. Forbes & Bro. claim that their success in business is due to the superior quality of their wagon, which they commenced to manufacture twenty-two years ago. From selling at retail a dozen wagons a year, they have grown gradually into a big wagon factory and are manufacturing for a big wholesale trade. They are very jealous of the reputation of their wagon and for this reason have at all times manufactured the materials that enter into same, going into the woods and getting the timber from the trees, manufacturing it at their own sawmill, watching each stage of its progress from the stump to the complete wagon. Every suspicion of a flaw condemns a piece of timber to be cast aside. Nothing but the best iron that is forged and the best paints that money can buy is used in their construction. The latest addition to their plant is the great tire shrinker which shrinks the tires cold on the rim, thus avoiding damage to the rim by charring which resulted when the old method was in use, when heating the tire red hot and shrinking it by submerging in water. Their hydraulic pressure machine for forcing the boxes into the hubs, the hub borer and the steam spoke driver, and the latest up to date axle lathe, are a few of the recent additions to their factory. The superiority of their wagon is largely due to the fact that, aside from such machines as can do better work than can be done by hand, their wagon is a handmade wagon; all the welding and finishing is done by hand, thus enabling the operative to detect flaws in material. They keep salesmen constantly on the road and their wagon business is flourishing, wagons being shipped to Texas, Alabama, and in the past they have exported wagons to Spain. A visitor to the Paris Exposition wrote them that he saw a Mogul being unloaded from the ship at Gibraltar, Spain, and spoke of the wonder it excited in the natives of that country. They have extended to their wagon patrons a cordial invitation to visit the National Good Roads Convention to be held here July 10-11, in order that they will be given an opportunity of going through the home of the Mogul and inspecting, at their leisure, its manufacture in every stage.

Sam Frankel.

If any citizen of Hopkinsville should be asked to name the best and most prominent business men in Hopkinsville among the names that would first occur to him would be that of Mr. Sam Frankel. He enjoys the reputation of being one of the very best merchants who ever did business in the city of Hopkinsville, and those who have had an opportunity to know can testify to the fact that he most richly deserves the reputation. As a hustler he simply can't be beat. He is a man of most excellent taste in the matter of dry goods and clothing, and has been in the business since his childhood days—in fact, he may be said to have been almost raised in a dry goods store. He is known to almost every man, woman and child in Hopkinsville and Christian county. He buys the very best goods that money can buy, and his judgment as to goods is most excellent, long experience having educated his natural good taste in that line. He has been in the business so long that he knows exactly what the public wants and he buys accordingly. He doesn't fill his shelves with unsalable goods, and pull them out on every occasion and try to work them off on his customers as some merchants do. His stock is always new and fresh, and is made up of the very best quality of goods of the very latest styles and design, and persons purchasing goods at Frankel's can rest assured that what they are buying is in style—if it were not it wouldn't be in Frankel's house. He deals honestly with his customers and this is proved by the fact that a person once a customer of Frankel's is always a customer, which wouldn't be the case unless he gave full honest value for the money spent with him. Again, Frankel has one price on his goods—one and the same price to everybody. He calculates accurately the cost of his goods laid down at his door, determines what profit he should make and he then marks his goods accordingly, and if his customer isn't satisfied with his price he's glad to show him other goods, but he doesn't change the price on the first—and, after all, that's the only sensible way to do business, and only men who do business on that plan meet with permanent success in mercantile pursuits, for people have no confidence in a merchant who has a different price for each customer, for under such a system they can never form any accurate idea as to the real value of goods offered to them. Frankel's is a one-price house, and that price is as low as the exigencies of business will admit of.

Frankel's line of dress goods is very large indeed and of the very latest patterns. He also has an unusually fine line of men's and boys' clothing, ladies' tailor-made skirts, &c., &c.

Mr. Frankel is constantly on the lookout for bargains in the big markets—and he picks up a great many of them, of which he gives his customers the benefit. He handles everything usually found in a first-class dry goods and clothing store.

Some people talk of the great cost of "good roads," but if they'll think over the matter a little they'll soon realize that the cost of good roads is insignificant in comparison to the cost of bad roads. When once constructed the cost of a good road is practically as an end, while on the other hand a bad road is always a tax on each and every pound of everything that is hauled over it. Many people do not realize this because they don't have to go down into their pockets and pay the bad road tax, forgetting that it is paid by reducing their profits on everything in which they deal.

In mentioning the Good Roads Convention which will be held here July 10 and 11, the Paducah Sun says: "Congressman O. K. Wheeler is to speak, and a large crowd will be attendance. Mayor Lang will attend and appointed the following today as delegates, and they will doubtless all make the trip: E. D. Hannan, J. S. Jackson and Al-

Hymarsh, of the street committee of the Council; City Engineer James Wilcox, Street Inspector Will H. Utterback, Contractors W. Y. Noble and Ed O. Terrell, County Road Supervisor E. B. Johnson, Messrs. J. E. Potter, and Councilman F. G. Rudolph.

If each farmer would sit down and figure out accurately just what it now costs him to haul each pound of his farm products to market he would be astounded at the enormous cost of bad roads. Few farmers take the trouble to ascertain the cost per pound of their hauling, if they did, they'd be enthusiastic good roads advocates.

County Judge Duffy is going to make a special effort to interest the fiscal court of Todd county in the Good Roads convention at Hopkinsville. The judge rightly thinks that the magistrates, especially should see the new up-to-date ideas exemplified and will urge all to attend. Our sister city can take this tip from us and put the "big pot in the little ones" for July 10 and 11, for our boys are coming—and our girls, too.—E. K. Progress.

The tax that bad roads levies upon the people is like the tariff tax levied by the Federal government in that people pay it without realizing that they are doing so, and also like the tariff tax, the people wouldn't stand it a year if they had to pay it separately, going down into their pockets for the cash each time.

In recent years the prices of all farm products have been figured down so closely by the trusts and combines that only those farmers who reduce the expense of marketing their stuff by making good roads can hope to make any profit—others will do well if they can come out even.

Railroads are of course beneficial to all communities, but at least half the benefit that should be derived from them is completely lost unless there are good public roads leading to them and in that way enabling the farmer to market his crops at the lowest possible cost.

The Good Roads train is now at Cairo Ill. its dates ahead after Cairo are Hopkinsville July 6 to 11, Owensboro July 14 to 20; Effingham, Ill. July 21 to 27, and Mattoon, Ill. the week of July 28.

It is simply marvelous that any farmer should fail to be enthusiastic in the matter of good roads. Good roads really mean more to the farmer than to all other classes of business men combined.

Of what avail are cheap railroad freight rates if we are to continue to have public roads that consume most of and in many cases all of the profits that should be derived from farming?

The freeing of the turnpikes of Christian county on July 1st marked the beginning of a new era of commercial prosperity for the farmers of the county.

Now is the harvest time for clothing buyers. Take advantage of J. T. Wall & Co.'s (Hopkinsville, Ky.) July sale when you attend the Good Roads Convention, July 10 and 11.

With first-class roads two horses would be able to pull the loads that it requires four or six to move over bad roads.

WEST & LEE

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

Mrs. Ada Layne.

Mrs. Ada Layne, who conducts mammoth millinery establishment at Ninth and Main streets in Hopkinsville, needs no introduction as ladies of Christian and surrounding counties. There are but few, very few, ladies who shop in Hopkinsville that have visited Mrs. Layne's large, pretentious and attractive establishment. place is one that would do credit to any city, and the styles she has are unexcelled anywhere. She is a complete mistress of her art, having learned it from long and full study and experience. She demands, as she well deserves to, a very large and lucrative patronage for her styles are always the best, the material used is of the best that money can buy and prices as low as she can afford to give them. In short, Mrs. Ada Layne conducts a first-class millinery establishment in first-class style. employes only skilled milliners assist her in her business. Ladies in the country who may be in city shopping at any and all times can find a hearty, cordial welcome awaiting them at Mrs. Layne's. No matter whether or not they desire to buy anything in her shop—in fact, she has a standing invitation to ladies shopping in the city to make her store their headquarters, which means much to many people, for a great many ladies from country, after finishing their shopping, have no convenient place which to rest until the male members of their family with whom they happen to have come in have finished their business and are prepared to return home. They are welcome at Mrs. Layne's.

West & Lee.

West & Lee, two wide awake and pular business men, conduct one of the leading industries of Hopkinsville. They have an establishment in which is manufactured carriages, buggies, road wagons, traps all sorts—in fact, any kind of vehicle that a person may want. These vehicles are made by hand and are worth a hundred per cent. more than the eastern machine-made affairs as are built to be sold cheap with regard whatever to lasting quality. West & Lee put nothing but the finest seasoned wood into their vehicles and the steel used is of the best quality. They make a vehicle that they can conscientiously sell to a person and feel that they have given full value for every dollar paid to them for it. One of their light, well-built, rubber-tired road wagons just simply can't be beat anywhere. There are other concerns in the state that manufacture on a larger scale, but none that turn out better, more substantial or more artistic work. They both thoroughly understand their business and guarantee their work. They also do all kinds of repair work in their shop at the corner of Eighth and Virginia streets.

Clark & Twyman.

No history of the grocery business of Hopkinsville would be anything but complete that did not contain mention of the ever wide-awake and bustling firm of Clark & Twyman, composed of Claude Clark, the famous "boy grocer," and Joe Twyman. They do a wholesale as well as a retail trade—and their business is constantly on the increase. Both of these gentlemen have been in the grocery business for many years. They make it an invariable rule to have on hand everything that one could naturally expect to find in a grocery store. They always have fresh vegetables, and during the proper seasons everything in the fish and game line can be found in their house. In addition to their line of groceries they carry a full stock of tinware, glassware, queensware, hardware, lamps, &c., &c., and they defy competition in the matter of prices, declaring that they sell cheaper than any other house in the city. Certain it is that they do a very large business over a very large territory. They are hustlers, and the grocer that gets ahead of them will know that he has been busy.

W. T. Cooper & Co.

The city of Hopkinsville has a number of business houses that do both a wholesale and retail trade, but the firm of W. T. Cooper & Co. is probably the only one in the city whose wholesale business is anything like as large as its retail trade. This is one of Hopkinsville's largest establishments and one which has done much to give the city standing, stability and reputation from a mercantile standpoint.

Mr. W. T. Cooper established this business about six years ago, and as he is a business man of wide experience and exceptional capacity and has at his command all necessary funds the business was placed on a solid rock foundation from the very start. It was not begun as a venture, but was an assured success from its very inception. Buying for cash and thereby securing a liberal discount Mr. Cooper was on even more than an equal footing with long established competitors who couldn't command capital as he could. Being a very shrewd, far-seeing business man, he gave his customers the benefit of the discounts he obtained by reason of his paying cash for his purchases, and as a natural consequence his business flourished and has continued to flourish, and it is today a credit to the city as well as a source of gratification to his host of warm friends. The establishment of W. T. Cooper & Co., is known throughout Western Kentucky, and is the headquarters from which many groceries in the country and in smaller towns secure their entire stocks. The firm carries the most complete line of groceries and has a tremendous stock from which retail merchants and individuals can select what they may want and their prices are as low as anybody can make on goods of a similar class. Western Kentucky grocers can't possibly buy goods any cheaper in Evansville, Nashville or Louisville any cheaper than they can from W. T. Cooper & Co. There's not a more solid firm in this entire section, nor one more deserving of patronage. Having unlimited confidence in the future of his town and county Mr. Cooper has invested a great deal of money in this enterprise and has done much to advertise the town as a commercial center.

Mr. Cooper has spent almost his entire life in Hopkinsville, and the people of the city and surrounding country know him well, know his true worth as a citizen and as a business man, know that he deserves to succeed and will do all in their power to see that he does succeed, for his interests are in a certain sense the interests of all the people, as he is laboring for the upbuilding of the city as well as of his own business. He is a public spirited citizen, always ready to advance the interests of the community.

Grocers desiring to purchase stocks will find it to their interest to communicate with W. T. Cooper & Co. before buying.

Dalton Bros.

This firm is composed of Messrs. George and Monroe Dalton, and it turns out the very finest brick that can be had for building and paving purposes, the brick being made under the personal supervision of Mr. Monroe Dalton, than whom there is nowhere to be found a man who understands the art better than he does. Of course, his brick are made just as other brick are, by the same sort of a process, but the superiority of his brick over most others is to be accounted for by the superior quality of the soil from which they are manufactured. In addition to a tremendous stock of building and paving brick they keep on hand at all times a big lot of lime, cement, fire clay, fire brick and sewer pipe—all of which are of their own manufacture and of the very best quality to be obtained anywhere.

A number of years ago these gentlemen came to Hopkinsville and entered into the brick-making business on a small scale. Their courtesy, industry and honest business methods rapidly gained friends for them, and by the closest attention their business grew steadily; they purchased from time to time additional ground for brick-making purposes until today they have a mammoth plant with a capacity for turning out fifty thousand brick a day—a plant equaled in size by very few concerns in Kentucky. In this mammoth plant is to be found all of the latest and most approved machinery for the rapid and successful manufacture of perfect brick.

Though Dalton Bros. have virtually had a monopoly in the brick business here they have not taken advantage of that fact to put prices too high, they have been uniformly fair in this respect, which is something that can be said of few men who have anything like a monopoly. They have achieved their present great success by dealing fairly and squarely with the public—and have furnished further proof of the old maxim that "honesty is the best policy."

The office of Dalton Bros., is No. 49 Sixth street, immediately in rear of Planters' Bank, office telephone 51, yard telephone 119.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Western Kentucky is Being Aroused to its Importance.

In announcing Gov. Beekham's proclamation calling attention to the Good Roads Convention to be held here July 10-11 and authorizing County Judges and Mayors to appoint delegates, the Louisville Post's Frankfort correspondent says:

The good roads' question is attracting a nation all over the State, but nowhere in the Bluegrass or Beargrass is it of as vital importance as it is in the Penny-rile and the Purchase. The Bluegrass counties are now traversed in every direction by magnificent roads. They are not so nearly perfect as the famous Jersey or Connecticut roads, nor as good as some of the roads in other Northern and Eastern States, but Central Kentucky has more miles of good roads than any other like area of country in the United States.

Western and Southern Kentucky are not so well fixed. On account of the comparative scarcity of material for building macadam roads, a great deal of that part of the state has been traversed until lately only by dirt roads, except where gravel is readily obtainable, as in the vicinity of Paducah. In Christian county some good macadam road have been built. The immense advantages to the industries of the county and the commerce of Hopkinsville that have accrued from the good roads that have been built, have awakened an interest in the good roads' development that was never before felt, and a big attendance is expected at the convention to be held there July 10 and 11.

The Good Roads Association in Louisville elected the following officers: President Ion B. Nall, Louisville. Vice-President, W. J. Gaudill, Barbourville.

Secretary, J. O. Vanselt, Louisville. Treasurer, James F. Buckner, Jr., Louisville.

Judge Geo. F. Campbell was elected Executive Committee man from the Second District.

Louisville is chosen as permanent headquarters of the Kentucky Good Roads Association, and Lexington as the place of meeting for the second annual convention of 1902.

Among the resolutions adopted was the following:

Fourth—Resolved, That we recommend to the road overseers in Kentucky a change in the present mode of roads and urgently request that they investigate other plans, and in their wisdom adopt such means under the present law whereby we will have the cheaper and better road construction as advocated under the good roads organizations.

If we were as far behind in everything as we are in the matter of good public highways this poverty would be in a most deplorable condition indeed. However, now that the attention of the whole people has been directed to the matter the day of good roads can't be far off.
